SECURITY ASSESSMENT GROUP, INC. CEO NAMED TO EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT TEAM FOR A FORTUNE 500 COMPANY

James Stewart, CEO of Security Assessment Group, Inc. invited to serve on newly formed Baker Hughes Inc. United States Crisis Management Team

LAFAYETTE, LOUISIANA – June 1, 2009 — Security Assessment Group, Inc. (S.A.G.) today announced that the CEO, James Stewart, CPP has been asked to be a part of the newly formed Baker Hughes, Inc. United States Crisis Management Team.

Mr. Stewart already serves as the primary contact for the Baker Hughes Enterprise Security and Crisis Management Team for Louisiana and Mississippi. This additional responsibility will mean that Mr. Stewart will be a part of a team that is ultimately responsible for crisis management at all facilities and the safety of all personnel in the US Land and Gulf of Mexico Regions.

“S.A.G. has a long standing relationship with Baker Hughes, Inc. as a partner of choice when it comes to security and crisis management. I see this appointment as resounding support for the job that we perform for BHI along the Gulf of Mexico,” said Mr. Stewart. “BHI has established themselves as a premier company in the Oil and Gas Industry. The creation of this team further strengthens their organizational security, will provide a higher level of safety for their personnel and a quicker operational recovery for providing services to their customers following a disaster.”

Baker Hughes, Inc. is a global oilfield service company with operations in over 90 countries. They provide advanced products and services to help customers drill, evaluate, complete and produce oil and gas wells. BHI also provides reservoir engineering and other consulting services.
